METAL FOREST . . . A "forest" of giant towers reaches skyward at the Mobil Oil Corp.'s new Torrance refinery as the refinery nears the mid-point in construction. The plant, being built at a cost of some $80 million, is adjacent to the company's existing refinery at 190th Street. The old plant will remain in operation until the new refinery is completed late this year, company officials report.

Chamber Sets Letter Clinic

How do you give a business letter a human touch and still make them clear, concise, and convincing? That question is one of several which will be answered for Torrance businessmen and women Thursday, Sept. 8, by W. H. Butterfield. He will conduct a Business Letter Clinic at the Torrance Chamber of Commerce.

Air Force Announces New Policy

Recognizing that stripes on the sleeve are still of utmost importance to the man in uniform, the Air Force has announced major changes in its prior service criteria—changes officials hope will make it easier for ex-servicemen in numerous needed skills to resume their careers in the Air Force.

Former servicemen may now enlist in the same grade held at separation from active duty providing, the program is open to all who are interested in improving their letters.

Previously, ex-servicemen separated more than one year would automatically be enlisted at a lesser pay grade. Proportionally, prior servicemen separated longer than two years will qualify for higher pay grades than in the past.

It also was announced that ex-Air Force personnel with Air Force Specialty Code number 46250 (weapons maintenance mechanics) are in critical shortage. Persons holding this specialty who wish to return to the Air Force will receive an enlistment bonus in addition to the many other benefits offered prior servicemen.

All changes apply to all former servicemen of any of the Armed Forces provided their career field is listed on the Air Force's needed skill list and grade limitation for that skill is not exceeded.

Further information on prior service opportunities with the Air Force may be obtained by contacting T/Sgt. Raymond Stauble, 1616 Cabrillo Ave.

offices at 1510 Cravens Ave. The $10.00 registration fee includes a set of 15 letter-improvement charts that cover the fundamentals of good business correspondence.

A well-known authority on letter writing, Butterfield has written 16 books and more than 150 magazine articles on this subject. He is also the author of the section on "Letter Writing" in World Book Encyclopedia, and formerly edited the Better Letters Service of the International Consumer Credit Association.

His letter writing programs have been conducted for business and professional groups in more than 300 cities. In reviewing one of his books, Printers' Ink magazine called him "the most expert of the authorities."

The Business Letter Clinic will cover such points as how to make even routine letters build good will, how to handle delicate situations with tact, and how to use effective selling psychology by mail. Actual letters will be analyzed to show why some "click" and others fail.

Registration for the Business Letter Clinic can be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce. The program is open to all who are interested in improving their letters.
